Let's Start!

What's the easiest way to meet new people?

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Where would you go to meet new people?
- Have you always had a lot of friends?
- How many friends did you have when you were in high school?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities.
- I can talk about people's past experiences.
- I can ask for clarification and exchange opinions.

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa talk about the daily issues of an average twentysomething in the big city.

* "Twentysomething" refers to a person between the ages of 20 and 29.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: What's going on, Sally? You look tired.
- Sally: I had a rough week. I've almost completed my interviews for the article on friendship. I have a few left. Some stories are so depressing!
- Vanessa: Are they? Can you tell me why they're sad?
- Sally: I spoke to a couple of people who feel lonely all the time. They didn't really have friends growing up, and now they find it hard to socialize.
- Vanessa: Don't you think it's hard to live on your own in a big city?
- Sally: Yeah, I guess. I think there are places where you can meet people, though.
- Vanessa: Do you have any suggestions where they could go?
- Sally: Well, I've always thought that sports were a good way to make friends. I've had meaningful conversations after my yoga or Pilates classes, for example.
- Vanessa: I know what you mean, but physical activity isn't for everyone, wouldn't you agree?
- Sally: I'm not sure I agree with that. You can join classes at any level. You don't have to be a world-class athlete to take up a new sport. I only started getting fit when I started college. I still remember the night I made that decision!
- Vanessa: You've looked gorgeous ever since, dear.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Present Perfect vs. The Simple Past Tense

1. We use the Present Perfect tense for actions which started in the past and are still happening now OR for finished actions which have a connection to the present.
2. We use the Simple Past tense for past events or actions which have no connection to the present.

Rule	Example	Explanation
The Present Perfect is used when the time period has NOT finished.	You've looked gorgeous ever since.	You still look gorgeous.
The Simple Past is used when the time period HAS finished.	I had a rough week.	The week is over.

Learning Points

Exchanging Opinions / Asking for Clarification

You ask for clarification when you want more details of what the other person is talking about.

You can exchange opinions if you and the other person have different opinions.

We often ask for clarification when we are not clear on what the other person is referring to. We ask the other person to be more specific by giving more information.

You can use questions with sentences to ask for clarification. You ask a question including a sentence within the question, like Don't you think it sounds a bit too intense?

Questions with sentences are called embedded questions.

You can use embedded questions like Can you tell me ... ? or Do you know if/which/what ... ? to ask for clarification.

An embedded question builds on a simple question.

Example:

Simple question: What are you going to do after dinner?

Embedded question: Do you know what you're going to do after dinner?

When you exchange opinions and ask for clarification, you can use expressions like I know what you mean, but ... ? or Don't you think ... ?

Look at the chart below for an explanation on how to make embedded questions.

Main Question	Embedded Question
Do you know ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Do you remember ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Can you tell me ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Could you tell me ...	what/where/when/who ... ?

Examples:

- Can you tell me why they're sad? (question in a sentence)
- Don't you think it's hard to live on your own in a big city? (asking for clarification)
- I know what you mean, but physical activity isn't for everyone, wouldn't you agree? (asking for clarification)
