

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's have fun with colleagues after work!

Learning Outcome

Exchange advice and suggestions in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like to practice team sports?
- What other team activities do you like?
- Do you prefer to do things on your own?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about social activities.
- I can ask for clarification.
- I can talk about future action.

Let's Explore!

Peter shares his love for team-building activities with Vanessa.

* In North America, "team-building" activities are used in companies to bring colleagues together.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Vanessa: Hey, Peter. How's work?

Peter: Hey, Vanessa. Work's OK. I'm going to organize a few team-building activities next week. We're going to book a table for six at your restaurant. Can you tell me which evening would suit you best?

Vanessa: We're booked up every night this month, but I'll make special arrangements for you.

Peter: Excellent. Thank you so much! We'll probably come next Tuesday, then.

Vanessa: Next Tuesday sounds great. Do you know what you're going to do after dinner?

Peter: I'm thinking of taking my colleagues to a karaoke bar. There's nothing like bonding over tone-deaf singing!

Vanessa: Don't drink too much beer, though. You'll have a terrible hangover. Can you imagine going to work the day after?

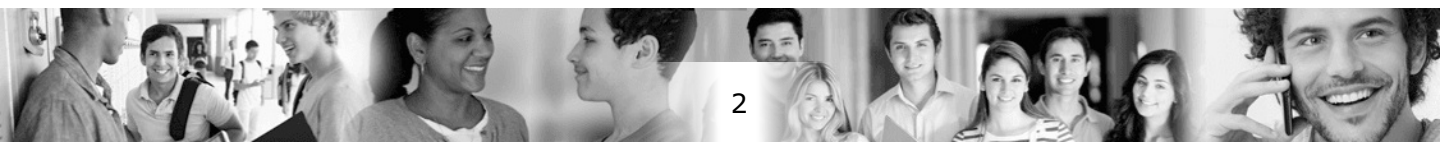

Peter: Don't worry. Most of my colleagues are teetotalers. They're into clean living, team sports and board games.

Vanessa: Sounds like fun.

Peter: It is, actually. We're going to start a trivia night group. We'll compete all around the city!

Vanessa: Do you know how many teams there are in Cambridge? You're going to have tough competitors.

Peter: We'll give them a run for their money!

Let's Practice!

Peter talks about his social activities.

Instructions: Read the sentences. Circle the correct option to complete the sentence.

1. I'm going to organize a few _____ activities next week.
team-billing / team-building / building team
2. I'm thinking of taking my colleagues to a karaoke _____.
bar / barn / bear
3. There's nothing like bonding over _____ singing!
tone-deaf / deaf-tone / dead-tone
4. Most of my colleagues are _____.
teetotalers / teatotalers / teeter totters
5. They're into clean living, team sports and _____ games.
broad / bored / board

Let's Practice!

Peter has everything planned out!

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Cross out the wrong words. Write the sentences correctly. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. We're booked up every night this month, but I'll making special arrangements for you.

2. We're probable come next Tuesday, then.

3. Do you know what you're gone to do after dinner?

4. We're going to start a trivial knight group.

5. You'll going to have tough competitors.

Extension Activity

Make a list of interesting team-building activities.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online. Find information about team-building activities around the world.
- Write a list of 4 activities you found interesting or original.
- Briefly explain why you think they are good activities, and why you would like to try them with your friends.
- Use the chart below to take notes.
- Compare your list with your partner and ask questions about their activities.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write about social activities.

☐ ☐

I talk about future actions.

☐ ☐

I ask for clarification.

☐ ☐

Where	What	Would you do it?

Target Words

- team-building (adjective): a type of action designed to enhance social relations among colleagues
e.g. I'm going to organize a few team-building activities.
- karaoke (noun): an activity involving singing to a prerecorded audio while reading the lyrics on a screen
e.g. I'm taking my colleagues to a karaoke bar after dinner.
- tone-deaf (adjective): unable to be in tune with the music
e.g. There is nothing like bonding over tone-deaf singing!
- hangover (noun): the negative effect of drinking too much alcohol e.g. Don't drink too much beer. You'll have a terrible hangover tomorrow.
- teetotaler (noun): a person who does not drink alcohol e.g. Most of my friends are teetotalers. They don't drink alcohol.
- board game (noun): a game involving several players, usually played by moving pieces on a board e.g. My colleagues like team sports and board games.
- trivia night (noun): a social activity involving teams answering questions about popular culture e.g. We're going to start a trivia night group.
- to give them a run for their money (expression): to make other competitors fight hard for a victory
e.g. We'll give our competitors a run for their money!

Learning Points

Questions with Sentences / Asking for Clarification

You ask for clarification when you want more details of what the other person is talking about.

You can use questions that contain sentences to ask for clarification. When a question has a sentence structure in it, it is called an embedded question.

You can use embedded questions like Can you tell me ... ? or Do you know if/which/what ... ? to ask for clarification.

An embedded question builds on a simple question.

Example:

Simple question: What are you going to do after work today?

Embedded question: Do you know what you're going to do after work today?

Embedded questions have the same word order as statements. Look at the chart for a further explanation:

Main Question	Embedded Question
Do you know	what you're going to do after dinner?
Can you tell me	what the time is?
Could you tell me	which evening would suit you best?
Do you know	which fitness club I should go to?
Don't you think	it sounds a bit too intense?

Examples:

- Can you tell me which evening would suit you best?
- Do you know how many teams there are in Cambridge?
- Do you know what you're going to do after dinner?

Learning Points

Talking About Future Actions

You can use two different tenses to talk about the future.

- You use will for predictions about actions or situations in the future. It can also be for situations you cannot control or decisions made at the moment of speaking.
- You use going to for intentions, plans or ambitions.

Structure	Example
Will	You will have a terrible hangover tomorrow because you drank too much beer.
Going to	We are going to book a table for eight at the restaurant.

Examples:

- I'm going to organize a few team-building activities next week.
- We'll probably come next Tuesday, then.
- Don't drink too much beer, though. You'll have a terrible hangover.
- We're going to start a trivia night group.
- We'll compete all around the city!
- You're going to have tough competitors.
- We'll give them a run for their money!

